RUMORS

Coronavirus rumours dismissed

By: Nanai Taofiga Laveitiga Tuiletufuga

The Ministry of Health is maintaining its stance that the rumours circulating over the weekend claiming that two women were tested as suspected cases of COVID-19 are nothing more than just that "unsubstantiated rumours."

One of the elderly women needed emergency treatment for heart conditions and was not treated as a suspected coronavirus case, clarified Health Ministry's Assistant CEO, Tagaloa Dr. Robert Thompsen.

Health officials as a precautionary measure however conducted the assessment and "she did not fit the definition for corona virus," added Tagaloa. She has since been discharged from hospital.

The second who is a traveller who recently returned from Australia was also assessed by MoH at her home. And she also "did not fit the definition for corona virus and has been cleared," Tagaloa clarified.

Over the weekend, when the rumours surfaced on Social Media, MoH via her website and the Government Press Secretariat Facebook Page and Government Website issued press releases in both English and Samoa to counter and dismiss the rumours.

LETTER TO THE SAMOA OBSERVER

(The following is the response from the Chief Executive Officer of the Ministry of Prime Minister and Cabinet, Agafili Tomaimano Shem Leo to inquiries from the Samoa Observer pertaining to circumstances surrounding a defendant charged with attempted murder and is alleged to have left the country while out on bail. The Supreme Court last week ordered prosecution to find out how the accused had managed to leave the country and whether he was issued with another passport. The letter published below is reprinted verbatim)

16th March, 2020

Lanuola Tusani Tupufia – Ah Tong
Samoa Observer

RE: Mr. Junior Vai of Vaitele

Talofa e, o mai oe? O le Aso Gafua leni o le amataga o leni vaiaso matagofie i le susulu o le la, o le faailoga vaai o loo soifua Iesu Keriso, o le Ao o le Ekalesia, o loo faavae ai le atunuu pele o Samoa.

Your brief email of Friday 13th March, 2020 on the above matter refers, in which you authored an article on the Sunday Samoan of 15th March, 2020. You will recall that I had responded to your enquiries twice on email and said that I would check with the Immigration Division for verification.

It is important to note that the border management system (BMS) tracks the identity based on the bio data of the passport holder. The bio data specifies the name, date of birth, place of birth, place and date of issuance, and date of expiry. When an enquiry is made on a specific name, the Immigration requires the full bio data. Names are not just names on the BMS. When we run due diligence checks and identity matching on the BMS, it requires the full bio data. That is how immigration processes operate to ensure that the bio data matches with the information on the system.

I had said in my emails that we would check with the AGs Office to verify the name you had mentioned, as it is a court case. Communication has been made with the AGs Office on this matter and the Ministry therefore advises as follows;

1. No person named Junior Vai was ever issued a travel document; and
2. No DPO was ever received for Mr. Junior Vai.

I hope the above clarifies this matter. We would appreciate this to be printed on the next edition of the Samoa Observer.

God bless you.

Tablets will reduce costs during 2021 Census process

By: Asenati Taugasolo Semu

The Samoa Bureau of Statistic, (SBS) is taking steps to realize the Government's data digitization vision with tablets to collect and record data during the 2021 Census.

Since 2017, SBS has trialed the use of tablet to improve the efficiency of collecting data for the census and also in line with the Government's Strategy for the Development of Samoa.

And Chief Executive Officer, Aliimuamua Ma-laefono.Tauā-Faasalaina is now confident to go digital when enumerators will be out and about with their tablets to collect data for the 2021 census.

"In the census 2011 and 2016, the Bureau used the scanner technology to capture the data for compilation and analysis. At the time, enumerators used the questionnaires with specific paper for scanning to record data," said Aliimuamua. "However during our trials we have found the tablets to be effective and cost effective.

"As we result, tablets will be used by numerators during the 2021 census.

"Learning from our past surveys in which tablets were used such as the Labour Force Survey in 2017 and the Household Income and Expenditure Survey in 2018, we found that using tablets was more efficient, accurate and less time consuming.

"For instance in the past, we used about 1000 teachers to collect the census data compared to only 200 numerators planned for tablets in 2021," she continued. "Collecting the initial data and sending it via email from the field to the Main Office for downloading to the main data collection center will be faster.

"And the process will be updated on a daily basis."

And the data is essential ingredients needed by Government to plan and implement appropriate reforms and projects for the benefit of the people.

For example. Aliimuamua noted that the environmental projects via MNRE used the census data to conduct feasibility studies into the impact of roads or new buildings in a specific area like the Vaiusu Bay, Vaisigano Walls, etc.

"The reports from these feasibility studies will assist the Government to make appropriate decisions.

"The census data also supported the work of the Office of the Electoral Commission in the registration of voters through confirmation of where people live as well as the work by ADRA to support the villages training on being resilient during natural disasters," she added.

"During the Measles Mass Coverage Campaign last year for two days, the census maps and household lists from the 2016 census provided valuable information to guide the teams in locating the roads and families in the villages."

But the work by the SBS also comes with many challenges according to Aliimuamua, who voiced some of the main ones which include the:

- Unavailability of Samoan people to interview during the census enumeration period and even worse are some people refused to get counted in the census;

- Difficulty of coordinating and training a large group of new hired workers (about 200) without a permanent office space to meet and discuss issues;

Limited funds from international and private partners to support census activities such as questionnaire consultations and training, media campaigns, etc.

- Internet connection problems especially in areas where the internet coverage is not as good as in Apia.

The use of tablet to record and store data by SBS staff.

Apia Park to undergo multi-million tala facelift

By: Nanai Taofiga Lavetiga Tuiletufuga

Apia Park will soon undergo a major infrastructural facelift, following Cabinet's approval to erect three new soccer fields with international recognition on the eastern side of the Apia Park Stadium. These new developments will be built alongside the rugby stadium and the tennis courts on the southern side of the Apia Park complex.

It will feature three 3 soccer fields, built under FIFA international requirements, with a stadium. One of the fields will have the capacity to host international soccer fixtures and will be fitted with artificial weather resistance grass which will cater for all season competitions.

This is another major accomplishment for the sport of soccer in Samoa since the erection of the soccer field at Tuanaimato. The project will generate opportunities for Samoa to host FIFA sanctioned regional soccer tournaments in the Pacific and Oceania regions, and international championships.

Soccer remains one of the most affluent sports in the world. The game has been a professional sport for many years and the sons of Samoa have been recognised as some of the best soccer players in the world such as Tim Cahill and others. It has been in Samoa for years now and played in various levels from school to club competitions.

And to ensure that every opportunity is afforded for young athletes to realise their full soccer potential and a future as players in the lucrative professional soccer arena, Cabinet approved this investment for the country.

In the world of professional sports, the best teams and best players can only choose to play in professional fields with very good facilities. This will be a competitive edge for Samoa given the development of these new soccer fields. Tournament organisers will have a solid base for choosing Samoa as host country for soccer championships and international soccer fixtures for the Pacific in the future. What will follow are consequential, with economic boost in the tourism sector, generation of trading opportunities for our local farmers and handcrafters, employment opportunities and the international exposure of our local soccer players to play in international tournaments.

On top of the leverage to profile Samoa, the new grounds will provide international standard facilities for the country's athletes to fully realise their talents.

Cabinet's approval of this project explains Secretary Agafili Tomaimano Shem Leo, strongly reaffirms Government's commitment to its vision underscored in the Strategy for the development of Samoa (SDS) to 'accelerate sustainable development and broadening opportunities for all'. Sports has opened historic opportunities for sons and daughters of Samoa to earn a good living. This has been the case for professional sports to date where many of our Samoan professional athletes have done exceptionally well. - The opportunities that will subsequently emerge from this project will be beneficial to the whole country.

The Federation Internationale de Football Association, (FIFA) is funding the new sporting facilities at a cost of $10 million tala.

Sailors when graduating at Maritime school.

By: Asenati Taugasolo Semu

Two Samoan sailors are undergoing 14 days of self-quarantine in New Zealand while a third is back home.

The three sailors had completed their employment contracts in Italy and were on their way home transiting through Dubai and Auckland.

"All three were quarantined in New Zealand for 14 days, and one has arrived in the country after given medical clearance, but the other two sailors are still under observation in New Zealand," says Samoa Shipping Services, (SSS) Chief Executive Officer, Lautimuia Afoa Uelese Vaai.

"To date, we don't have any other cases implicating Samoan sailors," he added noting that the paramount to the SSS and Government is the safety of Samoan sailors working abroad.

For safety and security reasons, the SSS Chief Executive said that Samoan sailors who have completed their working contracts are ordered to stay with their respective employers until further instructions from Samoa.

"About 60 Samoan sailors were supposed to have returned home by now but their return has been delayed by the SSS as a safety measure. Our boys are isolating themselves on their respective vessels until further notice from SSS," he added.

"They are all living and continue to work on the vessels because it's the safest option for them. We also get daily updates regarding their safety and health.

"The Samoa Shipping Services has no intention of bringing these sailors home at this time."

At present over 500 Samoans are working as sailors and crew members on container ships, cruise ships and fishing vessels.

Rev Siaoisi Salesulu,
Representative of the Government of the Republic of India,
Cabinet Ministers,
Members of the Diplomatic Corps,
Ladies & Gentlemen,

The Government of Samoa believes in the role of Information Technology (IT) as an important driver for economic development which in the long run will lead to better livelihood opportunities for all Samoans. Hence the Government of Samoa supports all local, national and regional initiatives that improve our IT Infrastructure and IT Services in particular those that build the IT skills capabilities of our people.

Investing in IT training and building the critical mass of IT Specialists in our country will almost certainly create opportunities for local IT innovation designed as tailor-made fixes for our IT Infrastructural needs and required IT services.

The India-Samoa Centre of Excellence in Information Technology (CEIT) project is not only timely, but also aligns well with the Government of Samoa's IT plans of investing in the IT skills capacity building.

On 24 May 2017, while attending the regional India Pacific Summit for Sustainable Development in Fiji, our Deputy Prime Minister and the Minister of State for External Affairs of the Government of India, signed an MOU to formalize the establishment of the India-Samoa Centre of Excellence in Information Technology (CEIT). I understand that similar MOUs were signed for both Nauru and Fiji.

The National University of Samoa (NUS) is the Implementing Agency for the Government of Samoa, with its counterpart, the Centre for Development of Advanced Computing (CDAC) for the Government of India. NUS provides the space and utilities to house this project, and CDAC was to set up the IT Infrastructure, provide initial trainers including course materials and reference books to deliver IT courses.

Despite the delays, I am happy to announce that between August 2018 and August 2019, four NUS staff have attended and completed the 6-months CDAC Training in Pune (India) to prepare them for the teaching of the CEIT courses. Two of them Dr Edna Temese and Vensel Chan completed the Post-Graduate Diploma in Advanced Computing, and the other two: Fiti Tolai and Fiafaiupe Tuiloma Lafaele completed the Post-Graduate Diploma in IT Infrastructure System and Security.

In August 2019, two trainers arrived from CDAC who together with the NUS trainers cooperated well to ensure all the necessary preparations were in place to establish and launch the India Samoa CEIT. Today marks the start of the 2-year pilot period after which all the equipment and materials will be handed over to NUS.

In this regard, I wish to extend to your Excellency High Commissioner and to Prime Minister Modi and the People of India, Samoa's gratitude and thanks for this valuable project. It speaks volume to the warm and friendly relations between our two countries as well as our shared wish to further strengthen our bilateral cooperation in the area of Information and Communication Technology.

To conclude, I am confident that this India Samoa Centre of Excellence in Information Technology will make a significant contribution in the training of our people in specialized IT skills which in turn will translate to innovation that will drive economic growth in the future.

I now officially launch the India Samoa Centre of Excellence in Information Technology.
Soifua.
